MMBW INCOMPETENT SAYS KNIGHT — blast over pollution

Member for Melbourne West, Mr. Alex Knight, has blasted the Board of Works over effluent being pumped into Port Phillip Bay from two drains at Altona.

"I condemn the incompetency of the members of the Board of Works," Mr. Knight told the Legislative Assembly during debate on the Environment Protection Bill.

He said effluent entering the Bay from the two drains was more toxic than the effluent from No. 2 sewerage treatment plant at Altona because the "inefficient" Board was not carrying out its duties.

"The discharge from the two drains is worse than that emanating from the Cowdroy Street drain in St. Kilda," he said.

"To avoid the smells it is necessary to purchase the best gas mask available.

"These two drains are the responsibility of the Board of Works but it is doing nothing about them."

Mr. Knight said he would probably be criticised by the Board because he was once a member of it for about three years.

He advocated reconstituting the Board into a five or seven-man commission to improve its efficiency.

During his speech, Mr. Knight also told the House of air pollution at Altona.

"One has to see the smog in Altona to believe it," he said.

He told of an incident in December of a huge emission of oil fallout from the oil refinery at Altona.

"The management of this refinery has seen fit to instal a spray to wash the cars of employees leaving the premises.

"That indicates they must be aware of this fallout."

Knight blasts Board on pollution

Mr. Knight said Canadian experts had found that pollution starts with smells.

"Within Victoria, the Board of Works is the worst offender with regard to the emission of smells and smoke," he said.

Mr. Knight then announced he would start a campaign to have the Boards' Werribee sewage farm connected to the outfall drain at Geelong and the effluent discharged into Bass Strait.

"Outbreaks of typhoid and other diseases have occurred because of the inefficiency of the Board in carrying out its duties and it has become necessary to prohibit the consumption of shellfish from that area of Port Phillip Bay and from Corio Bay," he said.

The Werribee sewage farm, which occupies 42 acres, is the largest in the world.

"Only recently there was a hue and outcry at the proposal to discharge sewage effluent into Port Phillip Bay at Carrum," Mr. Knight said.

"In the light of protests from municipal councils and residents, the Government saw fit to amend the proposal and to direct that the effluent be discharged into Bass Strait.

"However, on the western side of the Bay, the Board of Works has been discharging sewage effluent for many years."

Mr. Knight said he wanted to see the privilege which was given the people of Carrum extended to the residents of the western suburbs.

Lungs

Cast iron buildings at the Werribee sewage farm have turned black because of the effect of sulphide and doctors claim that it can have a similar effect on people's lungs, Mr. Knight said.

He said it was less dangerous to "discharge effluent into Bass Strait because technology has shown that ocean currents shift discharge more effectively than bay currents.

Mr. Knight said the incidence of infectious hepatitis had increased alarmingly in Australia in the past 10 years.

Ten years ago there were 1074 cases annually and now there are 2358.

"I am sure that this is caused by the pollution of our environment from sewage and sewage which is not disposed of efficiently," Mr. Knight said.

"At one time Australia was noted for its fine, clean air and its pure rivers and beaches but that is not the case today.

"Man has certainly created a cesspool for himself now and we have to try to clean up the mess.

"In NSW $230,000 was spent on combating pollution in 1969 and in Victoria the amount spent in the same year was $21,000.

"This leaves a lot to be desired and I hope the expenditure in Victoria will be increased."

On air pollution, Mr. Knight said not one conviction had been obtained under the clean air legislation.

"This is a strong indictment of any Government," he said.

"We should take stock of what is happening around us."

"Many people ridiculed scientists who said that the Earth's temperature was rising so much that ice caps would melt and ultimately many parts of the world would again be under water.

"However, now scientific evidence proves that is rising and much of this the world's temperature is caused by smoke which man is creating."

"Mr. Knight said possible damage to health was being suffered by residents of Yarraville as a result of chemical fall-out from factories west of the Yarra.

"When Mr. Dickie first became Minister for Health, I complained to him about the fact that trees were dying in a park in Footscray as a result of chemical fall-out from factories there," Mr. Knight said.

ALTONA YACHT CLUB

Over the ANA weekend, Altona Yacht Club's GPs travelled to Ballarat to contest the Victorian Country Championships at which Tom Jones, who was only sailing his fourth race in this class, was beaten by a quarter point for top honors.

Richie Pearl launched his new catamaran. A lot of interest has been shown in this new class and it is anticipated that six of these will be built over the winter period.

The first heat of the Victorian Match Championships will be held at Altona. There will be two more heats on the following Sunday.

The top skippers of Victoria will be at the Bresser Reserve at 2 p.m. The promotion day held last Saturday week gained wide interest and another will be held later, on a date which will be announced later.

If you would like to buy or build a boat to sail consult the club members before doing so. They will put you on the right track.

"I am sorry to say that this is happening again."

Mr. Knight said from the top of Park Towers at South Melbourne, the blanket of smog covering Melbourne could easily be seen.

Mr. Knight asked what the Government intended to do about the problem of excessive noise and smoke from aircraft at Essendon and Tullamarine airports and about the disposal of ship sewage into the bay.

Something must also be done to ensure that emissions of motor car exhausts are cleaner and less likely to pollute the atmosphere, he said.

On water pollution, Mr. Knight said.

"With the fall of the Roman Empire the world was regarded as having entered the dark or dirty ages.

"How true that is and we have not advanced far since those days.

"I hope the Yarra River, the Maribyrnong River and Jackson's Creek will be cleaned up."

"I have asked many questions about the pollution of streams in my province and the causes of this pollution.

"Increasing industrialisation is causing considerable concern and the more stringent attitude we adopt, the better it will be for our society."

Idiots

Mr. Knight again urged that regional pollution officers be appointed to municipal councils and be vested with powers which would enable them to control pollution within the municipality.

He said the man in the street was apathetic about what was happening around him.

He adopts the attitude, "I'm all right, Jack, to hell with my fellow man," Mr. Knight said.

"But every person is responsible for ensuring that he does not cause pollution or despoil the environment," he added.

"It has now become fashionable to advocate measures for the control of pollution, although those who recognised this need some time ago were regarded as idealists, cranks or idiots."

Brooklyn inventor Albert Perry, and his Netabin.

Makes money from fighting flies

A Brooklyn pensioner is making a fortune out of flies.

The more flies the merrier for Mr. Albert R. Perry, inventor of Netabin.

Far from being a free plug for a new brand of fly spray, Mr. Perry has invented and is now marketing a device many homes would profit by.

It all started on July 14, 1901, at Broken Hill.

Albert, the youngest son of seven children, was born into a mining family.

Apprenticed at 13 to the mines, he joined the army only to be rejected when his father told the army his right age.

Later in 1923 he left Broken Hill to come to Melbourne where he worked for H. V. McKay (now Massey Ferguson), maker of agricultural machinery.

His interest in inventing began when he improved a wheat pickler which was used to protect wheat from being eaten by bacteria.

Later, at Australian Glass Manufacturers, now AGC, Mr. Perry turned his mind to a silicone plug which sped up the heating process of solidified glass by up to two or three hours.

He received royalties for this invention as long as he worked for the company.

Now retired and a pensioner, Mr. Perry has devoted more time to his inventions and come up with a seller, the gar-bin, commercially known as the Netabin.

In essence very simple, the invention encloses the family rubbish bin in a steel, child-proof, fly-proof, dog-proof box with a hinged door.

Spring-loaded, the door shuts automatically.

The patent, said Mr. Perry, was approved by the Health Minister, Mr. Forbes.

Admittedly there was a fly plague at that time. His next invention is a garden tote wagon, about which he's not saying much as the patent is pending.

Basically it is a wagon similar to a wheelbarrow only lighter and carries all your garden implements.

It can also fertilise lawns.

Concluding the interview, Mr. Perry, now 70, said he was interested in promoting the Netabin, not only for the money, which should certainly bring him out of the pension bracket but to do his bit to fight pollution of the air.

Not unknown locally, Mr. Perry is actively involved in youth work in Brooklyn.

He was also in business for himself. At one stage he owned a monumental mason's firm in Geelong Road.

One of the most annoying things to any inventor is to have his idea utilised before he does it himself, as has been the case with Albert Perry.

"With inventing, it's just a matter of getting a goer and correct marketing," said Mr. Perry.

Hit parked car, loses licence

A young man who 'drove too far to the left' when making a right hand turn and hit a stationary car, was fined $60 and had his driver's licence cancelled for two months by Mr. F. Clancy SM in Williams-town Court last Thursday.

Terrence Charles Boxshall, of Misten Avenue, North Altona, pleaded not guilty to a charge of careless driving in North Altona on June 8 last year.

Mrs. Dorothy Wright, of 4 Franklin Street, Newport, told the court she was in her car parked in Miller's Road, Altona, at about 4.50 p.m. on Monday, June 8.

She alleged she did not see the defendant's car coming but felt the collision as her car was hit.

She alleged that about $400 worth of damage was done to her car.

Mrs. Wright said she was parked in Miller's Road waiting for a bus for her passenger, Carol Traynor, of 6 Dendulk Avenue, Altona West. They had been waiting for two or three minutes.

Miss Traynor said she saw the defendant's car coming around the corner as she stepped from Mrs. Wright's car.

She only had time to squeal before the cars hit.

She alleged the defendant was looking over his shoulder, not in the direction he was driving.

Boxshall admitted a prior Children's Court conviction for illegal use of a motor car but told Mr. Clancy, SM, that he thought this conviction should have nothing to do with the careless driving case.

Boxshall was fined $60 and was disqualified from holding a driving licence for two months. He was also asked to pay $11.50 costs.

He was given a stay of two months to pay.

Val's Column

Hello Girls,

Now that the midi is here, the "eye of the beholder" will be on the face, for lack of any other distraction.

So get thinking Girls.

Foundations are the base to the finished face. They are used to cover, disguise, contour and protect. This year foundations are lighter in texture, translucent and applied to a clinically clean complexion. You will find foundations made for every skin type — some with moisture, some with oil, some with broth, then some with medication. Application is made by sponge and water, roll-on, foam-on, liquids, creams, sticks and transparent gels.

Be thoughtful, choose wisely, then apply correctly and you will be well groomed, not thrown together. Remember, no matter how good the product, if it is not your right type, it just will not look attractive.

Think about your skin type, your coloring and what texture you would like. Remember, just because Joan next door appears to have perfect coverage and matt finish doesn't mean that her pan-cake (wet with sponge) would do the same for you. Look closely, has she open pores and a nose that has a tendency to shine? Yes. Well she needs that pan-cake coverage to look her best. Now look at you, nice fine texture, no open pores, no shine — then you go right ahead and get a light translucent foundation that will show off your full skin beauty.

We can show you, let you feel, the newest cosmetic textures before you buy your "this year" look. Next step is your accent makeup — but we'll talk of this another day.

Have you let Décoré Magic Silver Rose go to your head yet? So easy to apply, just mix in your rinse water and pour over. Décoré have also expanded their range of Color Natural, Girls. You can now color up those drab greys to match your Medium, Ash Blonde, or Medium Ash Brown natural coloring.

'Keep busy', is Gerald's motto!

"I wouldn't change my life with anyone, I've had too good a time".

So ended the interview with Altona Workingmen's Club manager Mr. Gerald Keep, Tasmanian, father of four, retired Sergeant Major, parachutist, boxer, championship bike rider, football captain and coach, ambulance driver, horse trainer, hotel owner and son of championship bike rider Lloyd Keep, nick named the one armed wonder.

There was a time in Mr. Keep's life when that wasn't his name. He was known as Henry George DeWinter back in the dim dark forties when world war broke out.

Brought up to be sports-minded as a child, Gerald was one of nine children.

He turned 16 during the 40s and joined the army. He was posted overseas to a unit in the Middle East where he saw action for 11 months until his parents found that he was not at CMF College in Victoria, as they believed.

Questions were asked and he was brought home.

He explained to his parents how he felt about the war and four weeks after he returned, he was on his way back to the Middle East.

He saw action until his transfer to Morotai in the islands and later on to Japan, where he was among the first forces to occupy the country.

It was in Japan he decided to change back to his real name because he chose to join the regular army.

"When they found I hadn't been using my right name they almost court-martialled me," he said.

During his time there, Mr. Keep played tennis, re-introduced bike racing and boxing into Japan.

He was involved in the supply of five dozen racing bikes from Australia and obtained the plans of the Latrobe track in Tasmania which he had helped build.

In appreciation of his work for cycling in Japan, he is the only European to this day with his name on a plaque at Yokohama Bike Racing Track.

At the same time, he managed to become tennis singles champion of the British Occupation Forces and tour the country for three years with an army boxing team.

At the outbreak of the Korean war, Mr. Keep changed from the engineers to infantry, starting from private and eventually working his way up to sergeant major again. He went with the K Force to Korea.

"I don't think I've known a worse place than Korea, and like I said, I saw action in the Middle East."

"One night you'd be sleeping with your head uphill and the next night down."

"With all the gullies and hills it can take you days to travel what is about 500 yards horizontally."

"Apart from that, with the desert, the diseases and snakes, it's excellent country for guerillas," he said.

"You can't trust the people there, either."

"You couldn't blame them, whoever controlled the area was number one," said Mr. Keep.

"We had a cook there once; he was a beauty. Every week he used to go over the hill and go home."

"We kept being pushed back by the Chinese and couldn't work out why, eventually it turned out to be Sam, who had a brother living up the road to the north, who was passing on information."

Mr. Keep recalled funny instances from the war.

"One night a patrol of 11 went out to a spot which intelligence had told us the Chinese were using."

"The patrol waited, and waited until dawn, when they prepared to go back."

"Just as they returned to a clearing on the track they found 11 small bowls of rice, gifts from the Chinese."

Mr. Keep has four children and a wife Oriel, who assists him at the club.

Being a family man he returned after the war to Portsea and later to Tasmania, where he retired from the army and bought the Crown Hotel in Hobart.

Later he sold out and became manager of the Hobart Workingmen's Club.

Later again he left Tasmania for health reasons and was on his way to Western Australia when he was "talked into" the job at the Altona Workingmen's Club.

At the same time he invested in trotting horses and later went, into partnership of a stud farm in Tasmania.

A keen racegoer, he recently purchased some new stock to build up his bag of champions.

"If you want a tip, keep your eye out for a Tasmanian trotter Vaulcluse, a five-year-old pacer owned by Dave McHenry," he said.

"He'll be coming over soon."

"Another one to watch will be Ray O'Fury, although I'm prejudiced, he's one of mine."

After interviewing Mr. Keep, one has the feeling you have only touched the surfaces of the many stories he had to tell and the many things he's done.

Above: Manager of the Altona Workingmen's Club, Gerald Keep, and the late champion bike rider Russell Mockridge. Gerald himself was a champion bike rider as was his father Lloyd before him.

Left: Then Corporal Keep he toured Japan for three years with a boxing troupe. His interest in boxing stemmed from his youth, and a sports minded father. He is situated five from the left in the top row.

THE CURTAIN RISES

(By "Thisbe")

Some months ago "Les Grandes Dames" of Melbourne Society opened their Toorak mansions and St. Kilda penthouses to the not-so-rich but very curious public.

Two or three dollars and ends on Saturday, March 13. Grahame Murphy, who is also president of the Little Theatre, would like to remind parents of interested children that the Children's Theatre has commenced at the theatre on Saturday from 3.00 to 5.00 p.m. under the direction of well-known speech teacher and television actor Mr. E. R. Little. The fee for all age groups $2.00 a term.

Grahame Murphy has been spending the summer recess re-creating the private drawing room of one of these elegant homes.

Grahame, who has been described by one of Melbourne's leading theatre critics as 'a Chaplin' because of his many talents is well-known not only in Williamstown, but also in other city theatre groups as an actor, singer, producer and scenery artist. He is also responsible for the production of the Williamstown Little Theatre's first production for 1971.

The play at the Williamstown Little Theatre's production will be at 24 Albert Street. It is a sophisticated comedy by Margaret and Hugh Williams with the provocative title, 'The Grass is Greener.'

If you would like to take a peek at the house that Grahame Murphy built, you can do so by buying a ticket for $1.00 adults and 50 cents children.

The season commences on Wednesday, March 3.

The children will be made welcome at the theatre on any Saturday.

Mr. Peter Curtis, who has recently returned from a trip to Britain is again directing the 'Theatre Workshop'. Anyone who is interested in learning to act, reading plays and making trips to the theatre will be welcomed by Peter at the theatre on any Wednesday night at 8.00 p.m.

NEILSON TAKES ALTONA BOWLS CHAMPIONSHIP

The Altona Bowling Club Championship final played on Sunday morning was won by Frank Neilson, who defeated Len O'Donnell, 31-24.

The green was in perfect condition and was timed at 14.5 seconds. Neilson was off to a splendid start, drawing four shots in the final end, which was a long end. The lead fluctuated for the next fourteen ends all of 3/4 length. On the sixteenth end, which was the head, Frank bowled perfectly to trail the jack back for four shots. This was the shot of the day and worth travelling miles to see.

The scores were then Neilson 26-20. Both players continued with excellent draw shot bowls with Frank Neilson eventually winning 31-24 after 27 ends.

Mixed social bowls were played on Sunday and trophy winners were Jim Carr, Queenie and Madge Weinzer.

The top team was defeated by 14 shots.

The second team lost by three shots and the third team were well beaten, losing by 40 shots.

This was Frank Neilson's second win in the club championships. He won in 1966-67 season.

Tennis champ back again

A former Williamstown district champion, Jack Wilson, whose tennis delighted followers of the game for many years has decided to return to competition tennis.

Officials of Liston-Esplanade were thrilled when Jack applied for membership last week. He is now living locally and he wishes to compete in the LTAV Winter Pennant competition.

Jack won the J. J. Liston trophy for champion player of the Williamstown district once and was runner-up in other finals. He also combined with doubles specialist Sid Evans to win the doubles championship four times.

Jack was a leading player for several years when the local competition standard was really hot and such players as Bernie Fox, Charlie Floate, Ken Chilton, Don Dunsmore, Denis Wain and many others provided top class opposition.

Jack has transferred from the Keilor Tennis Club, where he has been club coach and an active member of the committee.

The club secretary is anxious to hear from anyone knowing the present address of Doug Newgreen, a former secretary of the Esplanade Tennis Club and a life member of Liston-Esplanade.

Historical Society

The first meeting for the year of the Altona Historical Society will be held at the "Homestead", 128 Queen Street, Altona on Wednesday, February 17, at 8 p.m.

Members would be pleased to see visitors attend the meeting at which the forthcoming display in conjunction with the Altona Arts Festival will be discussed.
